There is no military service obligation. The JROTC program prepares high school students for responsible leadership roles while making them aware of their rights, responsibilities, and privileges as American citizens. The program is a stimulus for promoting graduation from high school, and provides instruction and rewarding opportunities that benefit the student, community, and nation. Each JROTC unit is structured along the lines of a military unit to develop student leadership at each grade level under the direct supervision of the instructors. The scope, focus, and content of the instruction is sequential; it reflects and builds on the previous year's curriculum. In addition to the emphasis placed on citizenship and leadership, the development of communication skills, the incorporation of historical perspectives, the requirement for competitiveness in physical fitness and military skills; the significance of service learning is emphasized. Students are guided by experienced leaders who help them develop self-awareness, confidence, the necessary skills to be good leaders and understand their potential. There will be a physical and cognitive skill assessment within the first 2 weeks of the fall semester to determine a Cadet's abilities. Cadets will set personal goals based on their data from the assessments with regard to improvements needed to meet the minimum required standard or to increase their abilities if the minimum standard was met. The assessments will be repeated throughout the semester to monitor progress and allow Cadets to adjust their personal goals. Cadets who do not meet the minimum standards by the end of the fall semester will be removed.
